Brief Report

Department of Assamese, Goalpara college organized a 30 hour long certificate course namely “ Socio-cultural History of Undivided Goalpara District”. The program was inaugurated by Dr. Subhash Barman, Principal Goalpara College. Dr. Bhanu Bezborra Kalita, HoD, Department of Assamese presided over the meeting. The inaugural key note speech was delivered by Ashubodh Kalita. Throughout the course resource persons of various field was invited to deliver lecture. They smoothly presented their topic on various issues of the Undivided Goalpara District.

Course Objective:

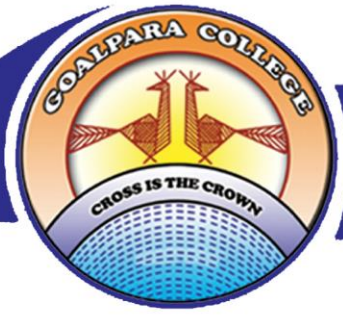

The Goalpara district, where the name is originated from the word `Gwaltippika` meaning `Guwali village` or the village of the milk men is a district rich in cultural diversity. Earlier, Goalpara district was a princely state ruled by the Rajbongsi Kings. Presently the erstwhile Goalpara district is divided into Kokrajhar, Bongaigaon, Dhubri and Goalpara district. Along with general people the district is also inhabited by different tribes, groups of religious minorities and different groups of linguistic minorities. The widely spoken language is Goalpariya along with Bengali and Assamese. As the district is inhabited by peoples of different ethnicity, it is very rich in socio cultural heritage. The course was designed to make new generation aware of its rich historical and cultural heritage.

Course Outcomes:

After completion of the course students were able to know many new things about historical heritage and cultural background of the undivided Goalpara District. Through the course students were able to see the society with new constructive angle, which will help increase harmony in the lower Assam area.
